No Shortage Likely

LONDON, Dec. 27 (Reuter).—It is understood that an announcement of the date on which meat ration. ing will come into force in the United Kirgdom will be made shortly.

Rationing is a natural result of the government's decision to take over the control of the sale, slaughter and distribution of all homeproduced meat early in January.

The control and rationing of meat is designed to maintain the supply throughout the country. No shortage of meat is anticipated.

The strategical disposition of the British forces in the South. Atlantic to deal with the problem of the raiders has been justified by the event.

It has always been obvious to the student of naval warfare that if the raiders were to doany damage it could be done only at the focal points, those areas of the sea into which merchant ships must come as they approach or leave the harbours. They might roam the open space for weeks on end, as they have done, without catching more. than an occasional freighter.

Recreio Deservedly Beat Nomads: R. Engineers' Test On Sunday Next

THERE WERE NO WOMEN'S league games last Saturday, but in a friendly played at the Y.M.C.A. ground, the "Y" Ladies gained an easy victory over the C.B.A. Ladies by five goals to one. The home team included four reserves in their line-up, and had the forwards taken their chances the score would have been doubled.

In a Tournament game last Sunday, Recreio beat the Nomads 2-0 on their home ground. On the same day the new Khalsa Sikh team was seen in action when they beat the C.B.A. 1-0.

Mrs. Gardner and Miss B. | Harker, in the "Y" attack, combined cleverly, and Mrs. Burnett but in some good runs on the right wing. Better team work was seen in the second

Playing without a goal-keeper, the C.B.A. defence had a gruelling time in the second half, and Miss Parsons, as a kicking back, saved the side from a heavy defeat. However, the defence with Miss I. Woolley, Miss P. Everest and Mrs. Wilmott, fought samely up to the final whistle, and muny good movements by the "Y"

DRAW

Try Scored In Last Five Minutes

(By "Fly-half")

YESTERDAY EVENING on the Club ground, Police just managed to save the day through a late try scored by Dempsey after being 3 points down until in the last five minutes.

The game was essentially one between the two hard working packs, with the ball seldom getting further back than the stand-off halves through slow heeling and quick breaking up of the forwards.

Wheeler was outstanding in the Police pack, which did extraordinarily well in foot rushes, and gave Thomson no time in which to get the ball out to Charter. The result be-ing that Charter had either to make a swift kick to touch or break away

Luscombe, at the base of the scrum and when he did pass out Leslie had Taylor, on the Police wing, was seldom in action, and generally found simself crowded out, with a kick to touch his best move.

Wall was again in splendid form for Police, and dealt with every ball to the best advantage. Walkden, who also turned out at full-back for the Club; was instrumental in holding up numerous dribbles by the Force.

POOR HANDLING

VAN LEEUWEN was in action on Club's left wing more than Lavalle. The latter received few good passes from Taylor, whose handling was poor, although he in turn received few good passes. Reynold, of Police and opposite Van Leeuwen, although seldom seen in attack, was kept busy in keeping the bustling Van Leeuwen

In the lincouts Stout did well for Club, and had more success than Dempsey, Police expert in this department. Any advantage that Stout gained was generally set-off by the good marking of the Police eight, which got round to present a quick

In the set scrums, Salter hooked well, but only to find that his men were shoved off the ball or else good scrumming by the heavier and hardworking Police pack prevented a quick clean heel. Burford worked hard at wing forward for Club, especially in instigating wheels.

AFTER A SCORELESS first half, Charter kicked ahead a ball which did not rise and caught the Police back division going in the wrong way. He followed up and scored well out. Castleton failed with the

Arab Sheikh

FIRST: essential of most New Year's Eve parties is fancy dress. For the benefit of anyone who has neglected to make preparations beforehand, here are four original and quite creditable ideas for dressing up.

Everything necessary for each costume can be found in the average household.

The handsome Shelkh has his face stained brown (sun-tan make-up or a weak solution of iodine), and a black wool or burnt-cork beard.

.His costume is a towelling bath-robe or dressing-gown, sashed with any vivid scarf.

Equally effective for either -sex:--Russian--costume.--

50 YEARS AGO

Bright and clear, if sensonably chilly, was Xmas Day in this "chief gem of Britannia's crown", as Str Jawge called Hongkong. And, we venture to think, in not place in England's dominions was it more thoroughly enjoyed—at any rate by the European population, from His Excellency down even to the broking element. Every hotel, shop, club and private house was duly de-corated, though mistletoe is a trifle dear out here; and in the matter of good cheer every clime contributed from Shanghai wild-duck and game generally to tropical fruits from the Philippines, whilst our friends in Queen's Road supplied probably many more luxuries than, the majority of residents here would have revelled in the good old country. The Berlin Foundling Home was an happy as ever, Pantor and Mrs. Hartmann having many willing assistants, and there was the unual well-laden Christmas tree. The guardians of our peace had their accustomed "good time" at the various stations. MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY students ragged twenty-one-year-old James Hurst. They "debagged" him. But they deny that they did it because he is a conscientious objector.

When Mr. Hurst, son of a Bury elergymän, was registered as a conscientious objector, his god-father, Canon Peter Green, chaplain to the King, supported the application.

Canon Green said: "Hurst has endured persecution for his outlook among the students. There has been vulgar ragging which was a disgrace to any college."

Mr. C. E. Jones, a student, has written to Canon Green on behalf of the University Faculty Technology Union saying, "Hurst was 'debagged,' but it occurred because he insisted on interrupting a lecture. It had no bearing on his moral

WITHIN A WEEK OF THE GREAT BANDA SEA EARTHQUAKE, WHICH FORTUNATELY WAS ATTENDED BY NO LOSS OF LIFE BE-CAUSE IT OCCURRED IN THE MIDDLE OF THE DEEPEST PART OF THE WATERS LAPPING THE SHORES OF NORTH AUSTRALIA, NEW GUINEA AND THE DUTCH EAST INDIES, THE WORLD HAS BEEN ROCKED BY A SERIES OF EARTHQUAKES OF UNPRECEDENTED SEVERI-

The most disastrous has occurred in Asia Minor. Like its predecessor, it has been recorded all over the world.

Almost simultaneously, other earthquakes have shaken Los Angeles, Tangiers, Persia and Soviet Russia.

The Asia Minor earthquake is described by Observatory officials in Hongkong as "a tremendous upheaval." It smashed the seismograph at Istanbul Observatory—the only time in the history of the establishment that such a thing has occurred.

SHIP CUT IN-HALF-BY TORPEDO

Crew's Amazing Attempt To Reach Port

LONDON, Dec. 28 (Reuter). -Their ship cut in half by a German torpedo, the crew of the London tanker, San Alberto, which was sunk without warning in the Atlantic, returned to the surviving stern half, got steam up and made a bold attempt to sail to port.

This amazing story of the sea became known last night.

The San Alberto was attacked without warning on December 9. The crew escaped in four bonts 15 minutes before she broke in two.

The fore part twisted and sank lininediately. Two boats, with the captain in one, kept together in the driving rain, sadalls and rising wind and they could occasionally see the other two but could not reach them. Early in the afternoon, the captain determined that the after part would not sink. They returned and the crew started to raise steam. By night-time the engines worked and there was elected light. The third bont came alongside but one was still missing.

Someone Blundered

How long Germany can wage war, and with what prospect success, is a question exercising the talents of 'government experts in several countries. In all their estimates, speculation in some measure is necessarily present. The knowledge whether Hitler deliberately chose war with Britain and France or whether he blundered into it on the assumption that these nations would not fight—this would help toward an estimate of Germany's real strength.

If Hitler deliberately chose war i mutual destruction. against two powerful nations in ad--dition to Poland, one might assume he counted on the material equipment of the Third Reich to carry it abolish the circumstances in which it on his own cleverness that he may have relied.

Thus the recent disclosure by Reikichi Kita, member of the of the world, gathered at Geneva, Japanese House of Representatives, indicating Hitler did not believe Britain and France would fight, is extremely interesting. Mr. Kita says that a Japanese industrialist who was invited to the Nazi rally nt Nuremberg, but who decided because of the crisis to go immediately to Stockholm, was urged in a note from Hitler to stay in Germany be- won cause there would not be war. It was not possible for the Allied diplomats, in direct negotiation with Ilitler, to know certainly whether its back to the wall-take the best he was really ready to face a major means to get away from it. war. Many assessed his boldness as bluff. Some appear to have felt that at the last moment, Hitler man for the mutilation or destruction began to realize what he was up against but decided to go ahead even into general war. Mr. Kita's But it may put quite a lot of men report, supporting the views of those who believe Hitler blundered, helps also to explain why he risked the Russian partnership. 2. Strategy

The strategical disposition of the British forces in the South Atlantic to deal with the problem of the raiders has been justifled by the event.

-It has always been obvious tothe student of naval warfare that if the raiders were to do any damage it could be done only at the focal points, those areas of the sea into which merchant ships must come as they approach or leave the harbours. Our covering forces did not need to roam the seas wildly ooking for them. Sooner or later they must venture into the areas where shipping was to befound. Recreio Deservedly Beat Nomads: R. Engineers' Test On Sunday Next

THERE WERE NO WOMEN'S league games last Saturday, but in a friendly played at the Y.M.C.A. ground, the "Y" Ladies gained an easy victory over the C.B.A. Ladies by five goals to one. The home team included four reserves in their line-up, and had the forwards taken their chances the score would have been doubled.

In a Tournament game last Sunday, Recreio beat the Nomada 2-0 on their home ground. On the same day the new Khalsa Sikh team was seen in action when they beat the C.B.A. 1-0.

Mrs. Gardner and Miss B. Harker, in the "Y" attack, combined cleverly, and Mrs. Burnett put in some good runs on the right wing, Mrs. Strange and Mrs. Stone; as usual, shared the bulk of the "Y" defence, but Miss Stokes, as pivot, also gave useful display; with more experience a a gives every promise of making a good half-back. Belter team work was seen in the second half than in the first.

Playing without a goal-keeper, the C.B.A. defence had a gruelling time in the second half, and Miss Parsons, as a kicking back, saved the side from a heavy defeat. However, the defence with Miss I. Woolley, Miss P. Everest and Mrs. Wilmott, fought gamely up to the final whistle, and many good movements by the "Y" forwards were broken up.

Mrs. M. White, who has only just returned from a holiday in England revealed fine stick-work at centreforward, and was the only live-wire in the visitors' attack. Mrs. Quick the inside-left, worked hard but her passing was weak. Mrs. White will certainly be of great value as leader of the attack, but the C.B.A. are still in need of a goal-keeper.

Mendonca in goal, would have won comfortably.

Miss Mathias was a speedy winger, and Miss C. Xavier, inside left, did fine work. Miss N. Silva, at centrehalf, was the most outstanding player on the field, her play being highly instructive.

W. A. Reed, as pivot, was a tower of strength, and kept too brief a check on his younger brothers in the lock. Tony Alves, the left half, also played well up to form, with young Z. Try Scored In Last Five Minutes "

(By "Fly-half")

YESTERDAY EVENING on the Club ground, the Police just managed to save the day through a late try scored by Dempsey after being 3 points down until in the last five minutes.

The game was essentially one between the two hard working packs, with the ball seldom getting further back than the stand-off halves through slow heeling and quick breaking up of the forwards.

Wheeler was outstanding in the Police pack, which did extraordin-arily well in foot rushes, and gave Thomson no time in which to get the ball out to Charter. The result be-ing that Charter had either to make a swift kick to touch or break away on his own.

Luscombe, at the base of the scrum and when he did pass out Leslie had difficulty in fielding his wild passes. Taylor, on the Police wing, was seldom in action, and generally found himself crowded out, with a kick to touch his best move.

Wall was again in splendid form for Police, and dealt with every ball to the best advantage. Walkden, who also turned out at full-back for. the Club, was instrumental in holding up numerous dribbles by the Force.

POOR HANDLING

VAN LEEUWEN was in action on Club's left wing more than Lavalle. The latter received few good passes from Taylor, whose handling was poor, although he in turn received few good passes. Reynold, of Police and opposite Van Lecuwen, although seldom seen in attack, was kept busy in keeping the bustling Van Leeuwen in check. In the lincouts Stout did well for Club, and had more success than Dempsey, Police expert in this department. Any advantage that Stout gained was generally set-off by the good marking of the Police eight, which got round to present a quick

In the set scrums, Salter booked well, but only to find that his men were shoved off the ball or else good scrumming by the heavier and hard-working Police pack prevented a quick clean heel.

Burford worked hard at wing forward for Club, especially in instigating wheels.

Head-dress is a sheet secured round the head with heavy cord and wrapped round the neck. Another sheet or a blanket or rug makes the cloak. He wears beach sandals or bedroom slippers on bare feet.

A young and slender girl will plan her Bridge Table costume as illustrated. Owners of less levely limbs will prefer a full-length skirt. In the former case a black jumper, in the latter a plain black dress is the basis, and it is sewn with cards, the various suits cut out in felt, and (if available) pierced coins. The apron, a piece of green baize as used for cutlery canteens, is similarly decorated.

Cards are attached to a plain .. headband for the crown and the waist.

Bright and clear, if seasonably chilly, was Xmas Day in this "chief gem, of Was Xmas Day in this "cater gent of Hritannia's crown", as Sir Jawge culled Hongkong. And, we venture to think, in 'no place in England's dominions was it more thoroughly enjoyed—at any rate by the European population, from His Excellency down even to the broking element. Every hotel, shop, club and private house was duly descented though mistleton is a tritle cornted, though mistletoe is a tritle door out here; and in the matter of good cheer every clime contributed from Shanghai wild-duck and game generally to tropical fruits from the Philippines, whilst our friends in Queen's Road supplied probably many more tuxuries than the majority of residents here would have revelled in the good old country. The Berlin-Foundling Home was as happy as ever, Paster and Sira. Hartmann having many willing assistants, and there was the usual well-laden. Christmas tree. The guardians of our peace had their accustomed "good, time" at the various stations. At the Central the decorations, were exceedingly tasteful, the messwere exceedingly thateful, the mess-room being gay with flags and approprinte mottors.

Indian Mules Going To France

LONDON, Dec. 27 (Reuter). -Mules from India are joining the B.E.F. in France, proving again that no war military operations can safely be conducted without mules, writes "Reuter's" military cor- E. Terry, Rev. Fr. A. Granelli and Rev. J. R. Higgs. respondent.

The mule will retain his indis-pensability whatever the circum-stances. It was frequently demons-trated in the last war that the mule could surmount all obstacles. He was unequalled for packcarrying across country when shellfire had made the roads impassable. "Old Soldiers"

The animals now arriving from India are old soldiers in every sense. They have served with screw guns in the North-West Frontier or in pack trains attacked by the mobile columns of Razmak or Wana, columns can go anywhere and guns can be galloped into action and mounted in the wildest locations. Diules have enough sense to remain under cover until the time comes for them to take up their burdens again.

NAZI BAIT FOR THE SWISS

GENEVA, Dec. 27 (Reuter).-Several leading Swiss newspapers toduy carry an advertisement of a Berlin company, offering to sell various German patents to powerful enterprises.

Industrial and financial quarters in Switzerland are wondering whether there may not be concealed behind these advertisements a German project for meeting the allied blockade of German exports by introducing the manufacture of patented industrial products in neutral countries so that such products may be exported as neutral goods. It. is also suggested that the Germans may hope to obtain in neutral countries certain raw materials necessary for the manufacture of these patented goods. These raw materials are no longer available in Germany.

Totalitarianism In India

NEW DELHI, Dec. 27 (Reuter).— The President of the All-India Liberal Federation said that the greatest danger to democracy in India was what he called the totalitarian spirit prevailing in Congress and the Moslem League. In 'reference to the international situation, he said that India's safety depended on an intimate association with the British Commonwealth.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

EARLY REPORTS FROM TURKEY REVEAL THAT SEVERAL THOUSANDS OF LIVES HAVE BEEN LOST IN THE DISASTROUS EARTH-QUAKE WHICH SHOOK THE CENTRAL AND EASTERN PART OF THE COUNTRY YESTER-DAY, SAYS A "DOMEI" MESSAGE.

"REUTER" SAYS THAT UNOFFICIAL RE-PORTS PLACE THE DEATH ROLL AT OVER 6.000.

While reports continue to pour in from the various stricken districts, it has so far been established that the cities of Ordu, Amasia, Sivas, Tokat and Erzincan have been practically demolished, while a number of villages have been wiped out.

FIVE COUNTRIES AFFECTED

Within a week of the great Banda Sea earthquake, which fortunately was attended by no loss of life because it occurred in the middle of the deepest part of the waters lapping the shores of north Australia, New Guinea and the Dutch East Indies, the world has been rocked by series of earthquakes of unprecedented severity. .

The most disastrous has occurred in Asia Minor. Like its predecessor, it has been recorded all over the world. Almost simultaneously, other earthquakes have shaken Los Angeles, Tangiers, Persia and Soviet Russia. The Asia Minor earthquake is described by Observatory officials in Hongkong as "a fremendous upheaval."

It smashed the seismograph at Istanbul Observatory—the only time in the history of the establishment that such a thing has_occurred.

GREATER THAN QUETTA

The seismograph at West Bromwich was put out of motion, Mr. J. J. Shaw, England's well-known seimsolo- to re-open the Pearl River as gist, described the shock as the most severe the world has experienced in many years.

"SILENCE" CONSPIRACY FAILING

LONDON, Dec. 28, (Reuter). -The "Daily Telegraph" Moscow correspondent says that the conspiracy of silence by the Soviet leaders to hide from the Russian people the fact that their army in Finland has suffered reverses is falling.

During these last few days, despite Stalin's birthday and the equally flower-decked ceremony of the local Soviet elections of unopposed candidates, war feeling has become alive in Moscow.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 27 (Domei).—M. Dereviansky the Russian Minister to Finland became to Stalin what Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop was to Hitler-an imaccurate reporter and prophet. But Dereviansky's fate has been execution before a firing squad.

He reported on his return from Helsingfors to Moscow that the Finns would capitulate to the Soviet threats. On the strength of this Stalin did not believe that Finland would take up arms, but would submit passively to Soviet coercion.

The Finns, however, not only rushed to the defence of their country against the Russian invasion, but have since gone so far as to drive the Reds back to and boyond the Russo-Finnish border.

Shocked and amazed by this unexpected opposition, Stalin ordered the death of Dereviansky, the man who had dared to give him false prophecy.

Finns Advance 50 Miles Beyond Border Russiam

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

ON THE SALLA FRONT, Dec. 27 (UP).—The retreating and defeated Russian Army on the northern front is becoming increasingly demoralised—to an extent that is puzzling observers.

The Finnish troops who, led by the Commander of the Finnish Northern Army, General Kurt Wallenius, last week penetrated into Russian territory, has now reached to a depth in some parts of 50 miles beyond the Russo-Finnish frontier.

The Finns are completing the demoralisation of the Russian forces with swift lightning attacks by ski patrols, . who are proving an invisible, swift and deadly enemy.

HALF BY TORPEDO

Amazing Attempt To · Reach Port

LONDON, Dec. 28 (Reuter). -Their ship cut in half by a German torpedo, the crew of the London tanker, San Alberto, which was sunk without warning in the Atlantic, returned to the surviving stern half, got steam up and made a bold attempt to sail to port. This amazing story of the sea became known last night.

The San Alberto was attacked with-out warning on December 9. The crew escaped in four boats 15 minutes before she broke in two. The fore part tavisted and sank immediately. Two boats, with the captain in one, kept together in the driving rain, squalls and rising wind and they could occasionally see the other two but could not reach them.

Early in the afternoon, the captain determined that the after part would not sink. They returned and the crew started to raise steam. By night-time the engines worked and there was electric light. The third best came alongside but one was still missing. Slow Astern

By keeping the engines going slow astern, they kept the seas from tearing the front part of the ship's remains in bits, but every time she had her head to the sea, great strips of Slating were torn away.

The attempt to make port, therefore, had to be abandoned. At 10 p.m., another vessel's lights were sighted. An S.O.S. was sent and she was asked to search for the missing boat. She falled to find this bout and then stood by.

The next morning this ship, the the Belgian tanker, Alexandra Andre, attempted to transfer the San Alberto's crew, but the seas were running so high that the lifeboat was unable to get nearer than

2. Strategy

The strategical disposition of the British forces in the South Atlantic to deal with the problem of the raiders has been justified by the event.

It has always been obvious to the student of naval warfare that if the raiders were to do any damage it could be done only at the focal points, those areas of the sea into which merchant ships, must come as they approach or leave the harbours. They might roam the open space for weeks on end, as they have done, without catching more than an occasional freighter.

Our covering forces did not need to roam the seas wildly looking for them. Sooner or later they must venture into the areas where shipping was to be found. The mouth of the River Plate and a hundred miles to seaward of it is a vital focal point. There are several othersin the South Atlantic. There are several in the Indian Ocean. There and thereabouts was the place in which our patrols were most needed. And precisely off the River Plate the Graf Spee runs straight into some of

Recreio Deservedly Beat Nomads: R. Engineers' Test On Sunday Next

THERE WERE NO WOMEN'S league games last Saturday, but in a friendly played at the Y.M.C.A. ground, the "Y" Ladies gained an easy victory over the C.B.A. Ladies by five goals to one. The home team included four reserves in their line-up, and had the forwards taken their chances the score would have been doubled.

In a Tournament game last Sunday, Recreio beat the Nomads 2-0 on their home ground. On the same day the new Khalsa Sikh team was seen in action when they beat the C.B.A. 1-0.

Mrs. Gardner and Miss B. Harker, in the "Y" attack, combined cleverly, and Mrs. Burnett put in some good runs on the right wing. Mrs. Strange and Mrs. Stone, as usual, shared the bulk of the "Y" defence, but Miss Stokes, as pivot, also gave a useful display; with more experience she gives every promise of making a good half-back. Better team work was seen in the second half than in the first.

Playing without a goal-keeper, the C.B.A. defence had a gruelling time in the second half, and Miss Parsons, from a heavy defeat. However, the defence with Miss I. Woolley, Miss P. Everest and Mrs. Wilmott, fought pens gamely up to the final whistle, and |. many good movements by the "Y" forwards were broken up. Mrs. M. White, who has only jus returned from a holiday in England, revealed fine stick-work at centreforward, and was the only live-wire in the visitors' attack. Mrs. Quick, the inside-left, worked hard but her passing was weak. Mrs. White will certainly be of great value as leader of the attack, but the C.B.A. are still in need of a goal-keeper.

C.B.A. as a team gave a very poor account of themselves. Aimless hitting,-many-stoppages-for-minor-intringements, and for too much talkthe chief sinner, was the order of the day. Miss Mackay, at right back, however, played a strong game, and Miss J. Crawford was always a trier in the attack, Laughing and talking during a game shows lack of concentration, and should the C.B.A. Indies hope to criendly games, there must be greater attention paid to a definite plan is improvement is to be brought about.

Try Scored In Last Five Minutes

(By "Fly-half")

YESTERDAY EVENING the Club ground, the Police just managed to save the day through a late try scored by Dempsey after being 3 points down until in the last five minutes.

The game was essentially one between the two hard working packs, with the ball seldom getting further back through slow heeling and quick breaking up of the forwards.

Wheeler was outstanding in the Police pack, which did extraordinarily well in foot rushes, and gave Thomson no time in which to get the ball out to Charter. The result being that Charter had either to make a swift kick to touch or break away on his own.

seldom in action, and generally found himself crowded out, with a kick to touch his best move.

Wall was again in splendid form for Police, and dealt with every ball to the best advantage. Walkden, who also turned out at full-back for the Club, was instrumental in holding up numerous dribbles by the Force.

POOR HANDLING

VAN LEEUWEN was in action on Club's left wing more than Lavalle. The latter received few good passes from Taylor, whose handling was poor, although he in turn received few good passes. Reynold, of Police and opposite Van Leeuwen, although seldom sten in attack, was kept busy in keeping the bustling Van Leeuwen essential of most New Year's Eve parties is fancy dress. For the benefit of anyone who has neglected to make preparations beforehand, here are four original and quite creditable ideas for dressing up. Everything necessary for each costume can be found in the average household. The handsome Sheikh has his face stained brown (sun-tan make-up or a weak solution of iodine), and a black wool or burnt-cork beard. His costume is a towelling bath-robe or dressing-gown, sashed with any vivid scarf.

Equally effective for either sex: Russian costume.

Head-dress is a sheet secured round the head with heavy cord and wrapped round the neck. Another sheet or a blanket or rug makes the cloak.

He wears beach sandals or bedroom slippers on bare feet.

A young and slender girl will plan her Bridge Table costume as illustrated. Owners of less lovely limbs will prefer a full-length skirt. In the former case a black jumper, in the latter a plain black dress is the basis, and it is sewn with cards, the various suits cut out in felt, and various sults cut out in felt, and (if available) pierced coins. The apron, a piece of green baize as used for cutlery canteens, is similarly decorated. - Cards are attached to a plain headband for the crown and bridge-markers are hung from include at least one shoe, its heel the waist.
